“Health Care Provider Recognition of Human Sex Trafficking: Education vs a New Smart Phone App”

- Increase Awareness of Human Sex Trafficking in the United States
- Discuss the Role of Education in the Recognition of Human Sex Trafficking
- Discuss the Development of a New Smart Phone App for the Recognition of Human Sex Trafficking
- Present results of a research study* by the Drs. Bouknight comparing education to the smart phone app for identifying Human Sex Trafficking Victims

Rey Bouknight, MD, PhD, FACP
&
LaClaire Bouknight, MD, FACP

Dr. Rey Bouknight, Principal Investigator, is an Associate Professor of Medicine in the College of Human Medicine at Michigan State University. He is Chief of the Division of Internal Medicine and Director of the General Internal Medicine Clinic.

Dr. LaClaire Bouknight, Co-PI, is the former Medical Director of Juvenile Justice for the State of Michigan. She is currently Chairperson of the Capital Area Anti-Trafficking Alliance. She has provided training in Human Sex Trafficking Victim Recognition to over 3,000 health care providers in the State of Michigan. She is founder and CEO of the International Dream Center of Lansing, which provides social support for several different vulnerable populations.

*study was sponsored by the Department of Medicine Seed Funding Program